AGED LADY DIES ON TRAIN COMING HERE

While en route to Atlanta from Chattanooga, Mrs. B. Hirsch, of Brunswick, aged 69 years, died suddenly last night of acute indigestion.

Mrs. Hirsch boarded Southern train No. 14 at Chattanooga. She was in the best of spirits, and a son, who intended accompanying her to Atlanta, did not do so because of her apparent good health. Midway between Atlanta and Chattanooga, she was stricken, and, in spite of everything that the passengers and train officials could do, death occurred within a few moments.

The body was brought to Atlanta, and early today will be sent to Brunswick, where the funeral and interment will occur.
