

Thomas Stacy

Historical Newspapers, Birth, Marriage, & Death Announcements, 1851-2003; The Atlanta Constitution; 15 January 1893

DEATH OF A PROMINENT MAN-A Brunswick Citizen Who Has Lead a Useful Career.

Brunswick, Ga., January 14-(Special)-Mr. Thomas G. Stacy, an ex-editor of prominence, died last night. He came home Thursday evening in apparent good health and while sitting in his room about 9 o'clock was suddenly stricken and placing his hands to his head fell back in his chair unconscious. Dr. Butts, the family physician, was called in and on yesterday he was presumed to be much better. But a short while before his death he complained of pains in his stomach, and Dr. Butts was called in, while the doctor was preparing medicine he arose from his bed and began vomiting, and with a moan fell to the floor dead.

Dr. Butts pronounced the immediate cause of death apoplexy. Stacy has, however, not been considered by himself and family as a perfectly well man since an attack of partial paralysis some eighteen months ago.

Mr. Stacy was fifty-three years of age, born and reared in Liberty county. He served as a commissioned officer in the civil war and came to Brunswick a few years after that struggle was over. He taught school in Glynn academy for a few years, and in 1875 started The Advertiser. Since that time he has been editor and publisher till selling out to the present publishers, a few months since. As educator and publisher, as a citizen and churchman, in whatever walk of life, the deceased has made an impression, and made his name a part of the better history of Brunswick. He was an active elder in the Presbyterian church, and a constant worker in Christian efforts. He was a member of the American Legion of Honor and the Georgia Weekly Press Association.

Published: 1/15/1893