

Maria Whitfield

Advertiser & Appeal; Saturday 19 January 1884; pg. 7 col. 4

It is our painful duty to chronicle three deaths in our city this week.

Second, Mrs. Whitfield, the mother of our townsman, Col. Bolling Whitfield in the 55th year of her age. Although a comparative stranger in our midst, many sympathizing friends escorted her remains to the grave from the Baptist church of this city and lovingly laid her away to rest, till the grand trump shall sound to call her forth once more.
